

Ancoria Bank is a new Cyprus bank, licensed and supervised by the Central Bank of Cyprus. The Bank offers full banking services for businesses and individuals with Banking Centres in Nicosia, Limassol and Larnaca.

With a vision to be the most trusted, committed and effective financial partner for its customers, Ancoria Bank's responsibility is to earn this trust by redefining banking—combining advanced technology with a total commitment to building rewarding relationships and delivering suitable products, effectively and efficiently.

The Bank invites applications from aspiring professionals for the position of Front-End Software Developer at its Head Offices in Nicosia.

Main duties and responsibilities

In this role, you will have a tremendous opportunity to work on challenging problems, and the ability to provide innovative functionalities through software development, including:

- Designing, building, testing, and deploying highly scalable Web and Mobile Applications software using the latest technologies.
- Maintaining software by correcting software defects.
- Providing documentation and training to internal stakeholders.
- Helping the Bank promote an experiment-rich culture that learns fast and innovates faster through small iterations of production-ready testable code.
- Continually updating technical knowledge and skills by attending in-house and external programs.

Requirements

- Undergraduate degree in Computer Science or any other related discipline
- At least 2 years of related working experience
- Knowledge of relevant programming languages and frameworks (React/React Native, Node.js).
- Strong engineering and coding skills. Ability to write high performance production quality code within agreed upon delivery timeframes.
- Demonstrated ability to quickly learn existing code
- Ability to work well within a team, as well as lead efforts to enhance business goals for our customers, team, and Bank.
- Passionate to learn new things and to challenge oneself to try new things
- Excellent knowledge of the English language, both verbal and written.

Remuneration

An attractive remuneration package will be offered to the successful candidates, according to experience and qualifications.

Application Process

Interested Applicants must submit their CV at careers@ancoriabank.com, stating the position for which they are interested, in by the 30th of June 2021.

Ancoria Bank is an equal opportunities employer.